Dedication

When one reflects back on the accomplishments and success of a class, they look for the individual(s) who made it all happen. Our class has set a precedent for the future classes. Through hard work, dedication, and a huge amount of togetherness, we have made a difference in many areas. However, we couldn't have done it alone. We, therefore, dedicate this page to the two people who stood by us, through thick and thin, and helped us make it all happen. These two people are Mr. Anderson and Mrs. Percival, our two class advisors. We would like to thank them for all their hard work and dedication to the class. We truly appreciate all they have done for us and the guidance they have provided us with throughout the years.

Many Thanks

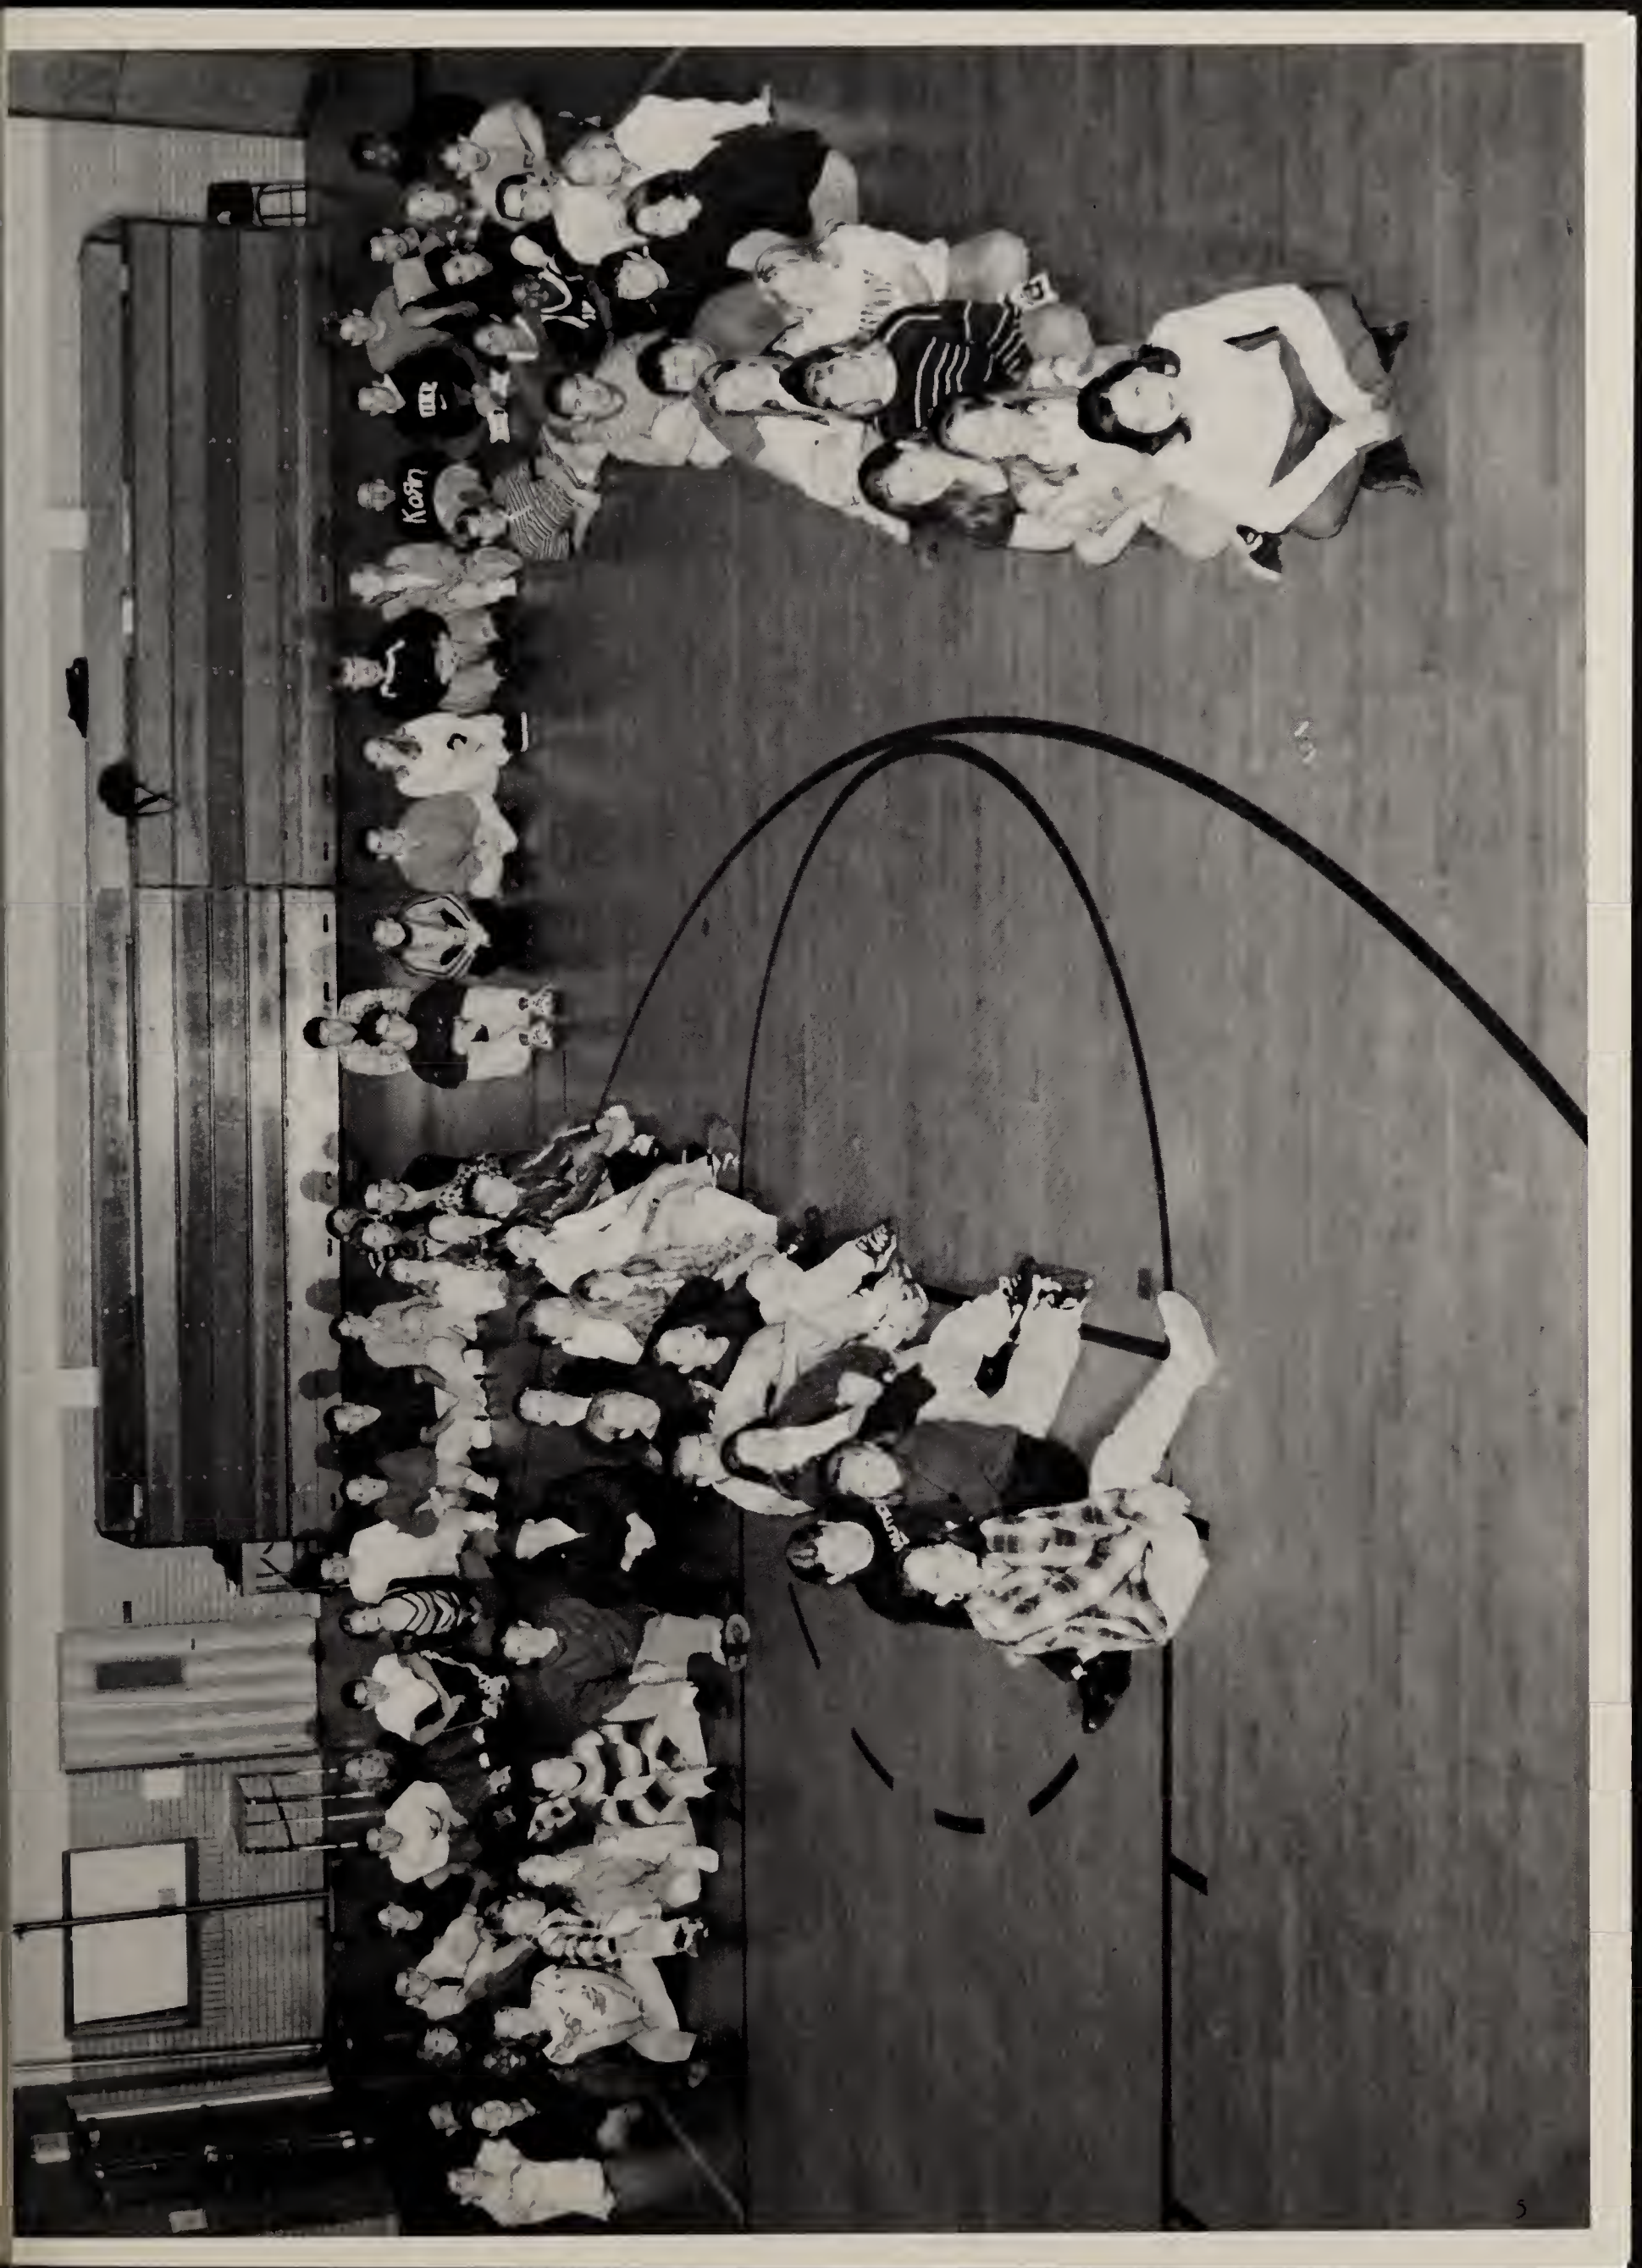

The Class of 1997

Class Motto

“Remember yesterday, dream of tomorrow, and live for today.”

Class History

We, the class of 1997, have decided to do something a little different in the way we present our history of our four years here at East Windsor Jr./Sr. High School. We are presenting our history in the form of a play. Instead of four years, there are four acts. Our class will be the troupe of actors and actresses involved in the play. After we are gone, we hope that we will be remembered, for we know that despite all of the hardships we experienced during our stay here, we will always remember our times in high school.

Act I: In this, the first act of our four act play, Rebecca Clarkin and Peter Kalnenieks took on the leading roles. Mr. Anderson and Mrs. Percival directed them in their parts. They weren't acting alone, however. Gina Orefice was stage manager making sure that ideas and histories were written down, Joe Barone took care of the finances, and Karie Madigan was script mistress, and she made sure a script was kept of the goings-on that took place on the set. There were also two backers overseeing the production. These two, Mr. Morton and Mr. Saitta, kept order. In this act, we got used to our roles and all of the actors played a scene at the Ocean Beach.

Act II: In the second act, Rebecca and Peter remained on as the stars. Gina stayed on as stage manager and so did Joe as accountant, performing the same duties as they had in the last act. There were, however, two new faces on the set. Meghan McKeever took over Karie's role as script mistress and kept the script. Mr. Saitta also stayed on as a backer but instead of Mr. Morton accompanying him, Mr. Sparks was brought in. One of the scenes in this act took place in a high school cafeteria setting. It was a dance called "The Snowball" — A semiformal where everyone was dressed nicely and where everyone had a good time. In another scene, we followed a tradition and used Balfour to produce our costume jewelry (class rings). For the next scene, we decorated our set of the high school for a rally. Still, the next scene showed us portraying salespeople trying to sell candy to raise money for our troupe, which proved not all that successful. In this act, we won penny wars against the Freshmen, Juniors, and Seniors of this high school. In one of our last acts, we planned the big dance or Prom for Act III.

Act III: With Rebecca, Pete, Gina, and Meghan still on the board of directors, a new face joined these people in lead positions for the show. Lindsay Webb took over the financial accounting and following these five, we rehearsed to our third act. Much happened in this act. With our sets under construction we had to produce all of our outdoor activities elsewhere. During the winter scene, we decided to hold another dance in that same cafeteria setting, but this time it was our troupe of actors and actresses and the older generation of our community. Then we held our prom at Manchester Country Club on May 17, 1996. The Queen of the dance was played by Jennifer Barton and the king was played by Marc Dumaine. Their court actors consisted of Karie Madigan, Carrie Dewees, Gina Orefice, Mary Kolodziej, Ty Gorham, James Grimes, Joe Barone and Greg Floyd. Because of the weather, this act lasted longer than anyone realized, but we made it to the curtain call.

Act IV: In this, the final act of our play, Jennifer Barton took over Meghan's position and joined Rebecca, Pete, Gina, and Lindsay to lead our troupe through our final scenes. We all started off strong, and we finished even stronger. Even with all the controversy over the previous act's logbook (yearbook), we put one together that represented our troupe as the responsible actors and actresses we have always known we would become. We held another dance between us and the older generation. We held an outing for our troupe at High Meadows on May 27, 1997, and a banquet at the Oaks on May 30, 1997. As each quarter of our act passed, some began to look back at our past productions and others just wanted to look forward. We sold magazines as usual and did all the break-a-leg rituals necessary that moved us towards our final curtain call. We also started to think about our futures. We weren't going to be acting together anymore, and so we started to fill our resumés for other troupes. At a tearful but joyous graduation, we said our good-byes and farewells hoping that maybe in about 20 years or so we would all meet again. We thanked everyone that supported us during our four acts and we hoped that they knew how much their teaching and support meant to us.

Epilogue: We have all gone on now. Traveling to different places and acting out different parts. We all know that our time in high school was memorable and made us the actors we are now.

Class Prophecy

In 20 years,

Kimberly Alzak will be a member of a highly specialized emergency trauma team, married to a surgeon.

Jen Bancroft will be retired and living in luxury after winning the lotto 10 times due to her psychic abilities and will be dunkin' her doughnuts in Cocoa Beach.

Joe Barone will be cruisin' around in his E.W.P.D. patrol car and trying to keep the next generation of East Windsor "deviants" from doing what he did.

Jen Barton will be a well renowned ER nurse and happily married with at least six kids.

Paul Barstis will be on the cover of People magazine for the top ten sexiest men alive.

Brian Bickford will be extremely successful in Office Administration and will forever be doing accounting and typing at his job.

Sarah Bliesener will be working as a special education teacher living in South Carolina with her wonderful husband Dave Stathers and her three kids.

Christina Breau will be married to a great guy, a mother of two, a famous surgeon, living down South in a beautiful colonial with a white picket fence, six dogs and some horses.

Gary Brunelle will be owning Sweet Sensations, while his beautiful wife supports him and his two kids.

Rebecca Clarkin will be married, with at least two kids, working in a chemistry lab, and still going to bed at 2:00 A.M.

Erin Coffin will be a successful elementary teacher, happily married with her two little boys.

Steve Congelos will be a well-known DJ and owner of the coolest dance club on the East Coast.

Dave Corricelli will have a shaved head, a goatee, be wearing a tank top, still being accused of things he didn't do, arguing about little things, be in great shape, have a house, and a family with Jackie.

Christina Cresenzi will be a famous writer with lots of children, but still stuck in Algebra II with Sheila.

Yonara Cruz will be a well known and wealthy lady, with lots of cuties by her side.

Carrie Dewees will still be trying to sell her '66 Mustang and will be living in Virginia with her husband and two kids.

Randy Donahue will have twenty years toward retirement and working as a firefighter and accountant.

Marc Dumaine will be a prosperous accountant living on Wall Street.

Nichole Etienne will be married with three kids, two dogs, and a turtle.

Roy Fernandez will be living with his two kids and gorgeous wife in South Carolina in a nice, big house and hauling in the money from his successful Nike Store.

Greg Floyd will be on a beach in the Bahamas, sipping cold beverages and meeting beautiful women, while someone else is running his 2.5 billion dollar Fortune 500 Company.

Holly George will still be begging people for food at lunch and having nightmares about Quantum numbers.

Tyshon D. Gorham will be a Lieutenant Commander in the United States Army National Guard and be awarded the Purple Heart for his bravery in World War III!

Sheila Griffin will be happy with her life, but still be stuck in Algebra II with Chrissy.

Ryan Grossi will still be asking Johnny how to hack into the TI-85.

Jessica Hamilton will still be complaining about society and telling people how she thinks it should be.

Sarah Hinshelwood will no longer be a Hinshelwood, and she will be happily married to Kev, raising one child, and living in New Hampshire next to Dee and Kev.

Peter Kalnenieks will be a civil engineer working toward a Nobel Prize in science.

Sonia Kement will have climbed the corporate ladder and have an established career as a successful CPA, and of course she will be living in paradise with her loving husband, Brain Harrington.

Kari King will be happily married to Ricky Fauteux with two kids living on a nice ranch down South.

She will be done with college and be an accountant.

Mary Kolodziej will be driving over bikes with her Raid in one hand and looking for the windshield wipers with the other, while Ding is following in his Dallas Cowboy uniform with a dozen roses.

Marcie Kopp will still be returning bottles at the grocery store for gas money.

Melissa Lampron will still be getting a new car every six months, living with Karie, Tanya, and Aaron Smiley.

Danny Letellier will be happily married with two kids and own a successful Architectural Firm.

Nikki Levesque will marry a rich old man, divorce him, take all his money, and marry the man of her dreams.

Lt. Tim Lowell will be blowing things up as a combat engineer in the U.S. Army.

Daniel Mangini will be living in a small town as a probation officer and coaching baseball somewhere.

Nick Marschall will be voted one of Glamour Magazine's top ten males in the world.

Meghan McKeever will still be driving her mom's possessed car to her four hour job at Revay's, after inventing the party proof house and breaking the record for world's fastest talker.

Theresa McKinstry will be married with two kids and a good career.

Kyle Meacham will be a millionaire living on an island with one of his wives. He will also still be doing all of the same things as he did twenty years ago.

Bill Montiel will be living in California with a beautiful wife and have one son. Bill will also be doing the same things he did twenty years ago with his friends.

Gina Orefice will have a successful career and wonderful family. In her spare time, she will be found kicking in the Rockette Line with her fashionable knee brace.

Steve Peck will be a masseuse and sticking up for people who just happen to be late, and will finally be getting the required 18 hours of sleep he needs.

Melinda Prorok will be happily married to her Mikey babe and have two kids. She will be one of the most successful models in the world.

Dianna Raber will be happily married to Kev with two children. She will have a log cabin in New Hampshire, living next door to Sarah and Kevin.

Chris Raimo will be a recluse, after the American Government kicked him and Jessica out of the country for protesting in front of the White House about Education for over 197 days, publishing his fifth book, "What I Think Is Wrong With Everybody," and touring with Elvis on weekends.

Maria Rivera will be married with two children and working in a large accounting firm.

Rob Scioscio will be happily married with two kids living with him in Vermont, but he will be hanging out with Chuck when he comes home.

Heather Sedor will be married to the man of her dreams, have two children and still be listening to Pink Floyd.

Chris Shary will be working undercover in the narcotics division of the FBI.

Mark Stenson will still be a Bills fan even though they lost the Superbowl for the 16th time, and be making his fortune working as an architect.

Johnny Stucklen will be making $80,000 a year and traveling the world.

Kathleen Towers will be living in Ireland with the love of her life and their three kids.

Kim Traska will be a wife, mother, nurse and have learned not to turn right on red.

Lindsay Webb will be happily married with several kids, laughing at her "stupid Lindsay jokes," and still eating like there's no tomorrow.

Yearbook is very stressful due to many deadlines, and as editor, there are many decisions. Some of the high points of yearbook are the people and the advisors are fun to work with, most of the time. Decision making, deadlines, and getting the work done in meetings without arguing are always a challenge. The best part of yearbook, as editor, is being able to boss everyone around, even though nobody listens.

Kim Traska

For it being my first year, working on yearbook has turned out to be a new and different experience that I will never forget. Some of the high points of working on yearbook are working together to accomplish a task and then seeing the finished result. Some of the challenges of working on yearbook are learning to work with others to meet deadlines. The best modity about working on yearbook is seeing the finished result.

Jen Barton

It is a pain some-times but it's nice to know that I had a part in putting the yearbook together. It's also nice to make the decisions of how it is going to turn out. Knowing what's going where and having a hand in putting it together is an advantage. Some challenges are that not everyone agrees to all of the same things and some deadlines are hard to meet. The best modity is the satisfaction of a job well done and giving Cezus a hard time!

What's It Like Being on Yearbook

Yearbook Staff

Meghan McKeever

Working on yearbook takes a lot of hard work and dedication, the many personality differences make it difficult. On yearbook my opinions are allowed to be voiced and they make impressions on the outcome of the book. Working with other people and trying to make decisions to make the deadlines are some of the challenges dealt with on yearbook. The best thing about working on the yearbook staff is being able to make the pages look the way we want so that our yearbook looks good.

Dianna Raber

It takes hard work and commitment to work on yearbook. I have to constantly make deadlines and sometimes I fall behind, but it is lots of fun! It's neat to view the pictures and determine where they go. It's also great to get a page done and then view what it will look like in the book. Meeting deadlines is a challenge; I have to get the work done fast! The best part about working on yearbook is seeing the final copy.

Mary Kolodziej

Working on yearbook is a lot of fun and stress to accommodate everyone's opinions. A high point of working on yearbook is as soon as the pictures are delivered, we get to look at them and decide which ones we think are the best. Everyone wants the yearbook to be memorable and we choose what makes it that way. Agreeing with other people with differing opinions and deadlines are some challenges of working on yearbook. The best modity is trying to capture the entire year and put it into pictures and then seeing how well it turns out.

Heather Schmeck

Working on yearbook is not only fun and interesting, but also rewarding. When I see the finished yearbook, there is a sense of euphoria. If it doesn't turn out well, then it is every man or woman for him or herself. Being assistant editor has challenged me to work with others in peaceful and productive ways. I know now that sometimes conflict will rear its ugly head, but I realize that we must all work together in common interest, making the best yearbook possible. The best modity of working on yearbook is the satisfaction of a job well done.

Janelle Goldreyer

The yearbook takes a lot of effort and cooperation to put together. One gets to work with talented people and learn the art of compromise and of commitment. A couple of high points are the opportunity to learn new things and being able to represent our school through the yearbook. A couple of the challenges are staying up until three in the morning doing whole sections that should have been previously completed and putting up with people who don't do their work and aren't reliable. The best modity about working on yearbook is the knowledge that is gained learning all the steps to make a great yearbook, and the increasing responsibilities given to me so that I can become a good editor next year.

Sarah Humphries

Being my first year, working on yearbook as business editor has been difficult at times, but has given me a real sense of accomplishment. The high point of working on the Archive '97 staff was being a part of a group that was really dedicated in making the best yearbook possible. Trying to meet everyone's different expectations of the yearbook was definitely a challenge. The best modity of working on yearbook is knowing that I've helped put an entire year's memories into something that the class of 1997 can take with them when they graduate.

Sarah Rajala

Basically, working on yearbook is pretty cool. The people are fun, and I learn a lot about the importance of cooperation and compromise. A high point of working on the yearbook is knowing that I've worked on something that will be around, and that I can look back on and say I was a part of. Being part of any group has its difficulties; yearbook is no exception. There's a lot of politics involved, as well as a lot of judgments that affect the whole group. It's a great feeling to know that when it's all done, that I've created something lasting that shows off our school and the good things about it.

Rachel DiFiore

I think that working on the yearbook is a fun and enjoyable experience. We all get to work with people of every class, and make new friends in the process. I enjoyed working with the other staff members and going around the school taking candid shots. I made some new friends also, people I wouldn't really know if I hadn't been on yearbook. One of the challenges was trying to get everything done by the deadlines. At times some people work all night long at putting together a page. Working on the yearbook can give a sense of discipline and accomplishment to some.

Erin Crowley

It can be difficult at times when people don't pull their weight, but I like working on yearbook; the people are usually good people. Some of the high points are being with people I can work with. I don't spend a lot of time with my friends, but they also work on yearbook with me. Working independently is a challenge, but it teaches us to do things on our own and to be responsible for what work we get done. The best modity about working on yearbook is doing something for my school and actually leaving a reminder of our class.

Joe Niejako

Working on yearbook is frustrating and complicated, but at times enjoyable. I got to work with some really great people, learned some new skills, and had a great time doing it. Trying to crop photos, arguing, trying to get my point across, and working with stubborn people are some difficulties I found while working on the yearbook staff. The best modity about working on yearbook is working with great people and advisors.

Bethany DiFiore

Working on yearbook is interesting because I see all the different pictures and get to know all the people in them. The high point of working on yearbook is taking the pictures and cropping them is a challenge. The best modity about working on yearbook is going out and collecting pictures.

Renaissance is a national program which promotes academic excellence, student activities, and behaviors which lead to success in school and reinforces a positive work ethic. Renaissance is a process where all parts of the East Windsor Community work together. Tangible rewards for attaining the program's goals are provided. One very important aspect to remember about Renaissance and its criteria is that they are agreed upon by the Renaissance Committee of East Windsor which is made up of students and teachers. Students are given gold or silver cards depending on their level of performance. Cards are distributed after each marking period.

Renaissance Committee Members: Advisor: Mr. Bravakis, Jennifer Abbe, Samer Aziz, Cassie Baughman, Kara Beaudet, Anthony Bonetti, Tiffany DeSousa, Krista Fila, Katherine Iskrzak, Robert Kucejko, John Madigan, Karie Madigan, David Mosher, K. C. O'Brien, Lacy Palmisano, Beth Siekiera, Anna Tertytsia, Natasha Vincent

The Freshman executive board is extremely important. It has the responsibility for deciding which fundraisers to undertake in order to offset the costs of trips and expenses for the freshman class. We are limited in the types of fundraisers we can have, so we try to pick fundraisers that will be successful and fun. Another goal we have is to accumulate money to help pay for our graduation in the year 2000. This is challenging, because as freshmen we start off the year with no money in our treasury. We must make sure that the fundraising events are those that will get the attention of freshmen so that they will want to participate.

The members of the Spanish Club are engaged in activities that enhance and promote an understanding of Hispanic culture. The club has made pinatas, shared a Mexican supper at a local restaurant, and learned how to play Spanish games. This year we are going to produce a play for us in the 7th and 8th grade classes, make castanets, and Aztec designed "bark" bookmarks. A special excursion to a Spanish restaurant is being planned. Monies collected during our fundraiser will help to defray the cost.

Spanish Club: Advisors: Mrs. Herbst and Mrs. Bowman, Janelle Goldreyer, Krista Fila, Jen Clair, Kim Floyd, Rob Rolocut, Matt Muir, Nick Malo, Brian Koehler, Denise Russell, Tara Czarnecki, Danielle Weatherwax

FHA is a vocational student organization which focuses on developing leadership skills in family and consumer sciences students. East Windsor FHA members initiated the Santa's Village four years ago as a community service project. The young children are entertained by the high school students and the donations of food items go to the needy. Money earned in foods classes funds the FHA dues and attendance at the State FHA Conference each year. Students enter skill events such as cake decorating, job interviews, community service project and informative talk.

The French Club meets every month after school. Its purpose is to promote the French language and culture. We play French games and eat French food.

High school students with an interest in broadcast journalism can become involved with Panther TV. Members of each class produces and presents a live telecast of daily announcements for both the student body and staff. These shows are viewed over the school's Channel One television network each morning during homeroom. The crew of PTV are not only responsible for reading the news of the day, but they are also given the chance to learn about the technical and production work that goes on behind the scene.

Students Against Pollution is a small group of students who handle the recycling programs at both the Jr./Sr. high school and at the Broad Brook School. Since the students are too young at Broad Brook School to handle the recycling bins, senior and junior high school students travel to Broad Brook School each Friday afternoon to carry out the recycling collections.

Broad Brook Fire Dept.: Joe Niejako Jr., Corey Davis, Brian Hill, Denise Russel, Robert Rolocut

The Broad Brook Fire Dept. is an organization that is dedicated to serving the town of East Windsor in the preservation of life and property. It is made up of brave and noble men and women who give themselves, their time as well as great effort to bind together for a common cause. Countless hours of training are put into preparing these people to complete numerous life threatening tasks. On the street they may appear as ordinary people, but when the whistle blows and people cry out for help, they become heroes.

The Warehouse Point Fire Dept. is an organization that provides its service to the town of East Windsor. It is made up of men and women who devote themselves to their cause. Its members spend hours in training in hope to save the town.

Warehouse Point Fire Department: Ginny Donahue, Danny Letellier, Natasha Vincent, Jason Messina, Christina Breau, Randy Donahue

EMS: Corey Davis, Robert Rolocut, Erin Crowley, Andrea Sullivan, Christina Breau

The EMS service for the town of East Windsor is made up of men and women who are devoted to saving the lives of others. Many hours of training are put in to make these everyday people into lifesavers. Brought together to help others in need, they willingly and unselfishly respond in hope to see others live happier and healthier lives.

*"The Road goes ever on and on
Down from the door where it began.
Now far ahead the Road has gone,
And I must follow, if I can,
Pursuing it with eager feet,
Until it joins some larger way
Where many paths and errands meet.
And whither then? I cannot say." **
